- 25X1 1. On 29 June 1953, the Chinese Communist New China News Agency in Peiping transmitted the following item, among reference material which was for the newspaper editor's guidance and not for publication, to the Chinese Communist Ta Kung Pao in Hong Kong: "In spite of frustrations, sabotage, and the release of the POW's by Syngman Rhee, the governments of Communist China and North Korea will not abandon the sincere attitude by which they have been seeking peace with the United Nations armies. This decision has received the support and complete agreement of the peace loving USSR".
2. The reference material further stated that:
- The Chinese Communists and North Koreans would not suddenly close the door on the truce negotiations.
  - The United Nations army had connived with Rhee on the release of the POW's.<sup>1</sup>
  - The Chinese Communists had fulfilled most of their aims in the Anti-America Aid-Korea campaign.
  - In the future the Chinese Communists would devote their energies to the construction of Communist China while encouraging and assisting small and weak Asiatic countries to develop their national revolutions, such revolutions to be in coordination with Soviet policy in the Middle East.
3. According to the line taken in the above reference material Communist countries believe that western countries will eventually be overthrown without the necessity for a large scale war.

Comment. This has been part of the recent Chinese Communist propaganda line concerning the release of the POW's. On 2 July the official Peiping radio charged that the United States had "connived" with CHIANG Kai-shek and Syngman Rhee to free Chinese as well as North Korean POW's.
